

Nature in Precocious Mood.—A cloudburst at Louth converted the placid canal into a raging torrent and moved these barges over and into a lock over 800 yards distant from the spot at which they were moored.

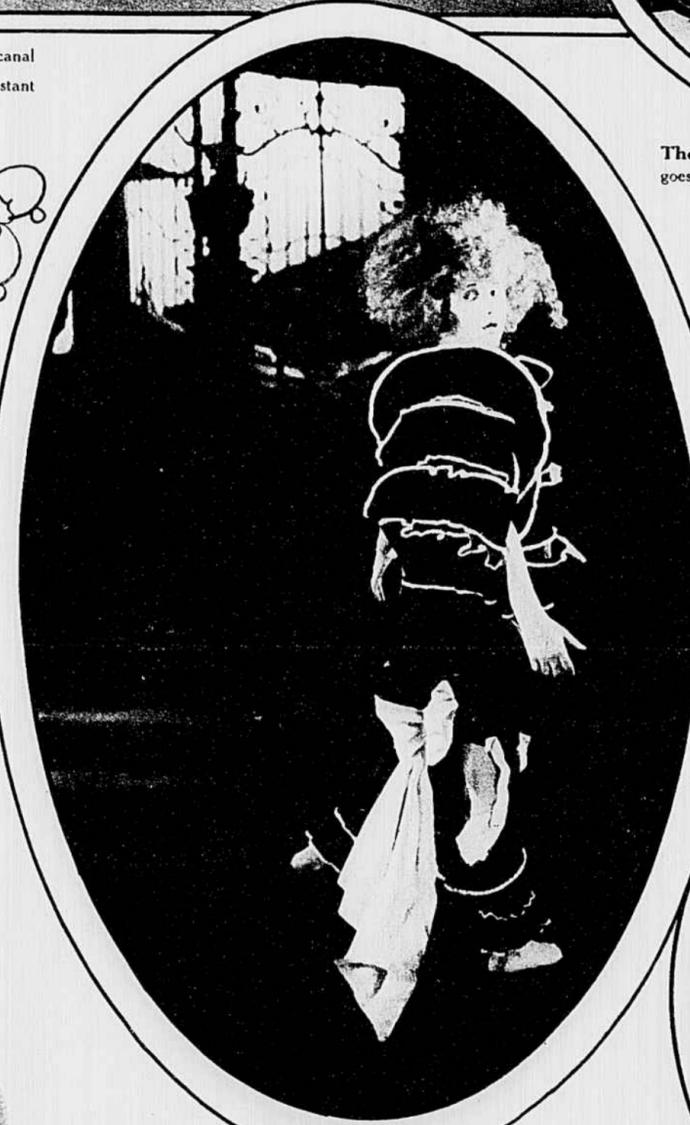

Honoring "The Little Corporal."—Although his deeds were dwarfed by those of her warriors in the Great War, France still holds sacred the memory of her greatest soldier, Napoleon. The photo is a view of the ceremonies at the Arc De Triomphe, celebrating the 100th anniversary of his death.

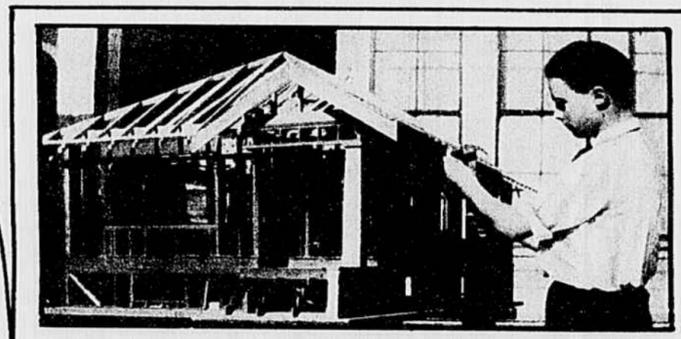

The Ultimate Minimum.—Here is pictured the smallest practical auto in the world. It goes itself and carries a passenger, which facts were proved in a recent test in Paris. M. Duc de Cajé constructed it. Some mad wag can suggest a name for it.

Roosevelts Sail.—Kermit and Archie Roosevelt snapped aboard the S. S. Olympic before sailing for Spain and to make a tour of Europe.

"Up-Side-Down" gown.—Pearl White shows something new and novel in gowns, called by its designer the "Up-Side-Down." It can be worn either way with equally charming effect.

An Embryo Architect.—In the vocational schools of Oakland, Cal., the students are early taught to apply their studies to practical purposes. Here is a model, in miniature, of a bungalow designed by a fifteen-year-old student.

The First Birthday.—The crew of the U. S. S. Osborne, Destroyer 295, celebrated the first anniversary of the commissioning of their vessel with fitting ceremonies and a regular birthday party. The photo is that of her sponsor, Mrs. Elizabeth Osborne Fisher, sister of Lt. Osborne, U. S. N., killed at Chateau-Thierry, after whom the vessel was named.

New Movie Camera.—New motor-driven "Movie" camera, especially designed for making aerial views. The weight of the machine is 21 pounds; motor 1/4-horse-power, 8 volts, and it will run unattended for 16 hours.

Premier Aviatrix.—Lt. Laura Bromwell, by her recent flying feat at Mineola, L. I., has won the title of America's "Queen of the Air." Her feat was looping 199 times, a new world's record for women. Miss Bromwell is a Lieutenant of the Aerial Police Force of New York City.
